Sheriff, Chief Debate Holding Facility Merits

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Is the North San Mateo County Pre-arraignment Detention Facility (PDF) in Daly City working?

"No," according to San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald, "It's not working."

But North County police and officials connected to the jail project disagree with McDonald.

They say the holding jail is working far beyond their expectations.

To date, some 1300 persons have been processed through the jail, and time and money have been saved by cities using the facility.

The PDF is used by several North County cities under a joint agreement.

It is part of the "Des Moines Project" and funded by the federal government as a one-year pilot project.

McDonald said he has never favored the Des Moines Project and believes the separation of correctional facilities, as now exists with his jail in Redwood City and the PDF in Daly City, "subverts the system."

He is outspokenly opposed to the entire Des Moines project.

The project, part of which is the PDF ($109,000) is designed to lighten the load on jails by encouraging alternatives to incarceration of persons arrested by police.

It was anticipated that many of those persons arrested would be eligible for immediate release on OR (own recognizance) or bail, and would not be jailed for any length of time.

What is happening in Daly City is that, contrary to the intent of the Des Moines Project, persons are being incarcerated at a high rate and are not being released as was expected.

A person arrested is booked into the Daly City jail by any of the user cities — Brisbane, Colma, San Bruno, Pacifica, Daly City or South San Francisco.

He or she is processed and incarcerated.

The prisoner then is transferred to the North San Mateo County Judicial District courthouse in South San Francisco where the prisoner is turned over to the Sheriff's Office.

McDonald condemns this system.

He has no control over the jail operation in Daly City and no control over property inventories or routine booking matters.

And he doesn't think his department should take over the handling of a prisoner "halfway" and "run them through the court."

McDonald does agree there is a need for a North County holding facility — on the courthouse grounds and with him in charge.

McDonald does agree there is a need for a North County holding facility — on the courthouse grounds and with him in charge.

"That way we would have complete control all the way," McDonald said.

His biggest complaint against the existing jail in Daly City is that it is staffed by "grant employees and not police officers."

The job of guarding and caring for prisoners should be left to the sheriff, because "we've been in business for years," McDonald said.

Heading the PDF governing board is Daly City Police Chief David A. Hansen.

He defends the jail setup and points to its successful operation in processing persons arrested for crimes in the North County.

"We got into the jail business to get out of the jail business," Hansen says.

He interprets this statement as meaning there is a need for such a North County facility and the volume of "business" in his jail proves it.

"What we're doing is done out of necessity. The mere number of bookings is proved (See Page 2, Column 1)

Public Employees

DC Opposes Right To Strike Bill

Fears that a proposed new public employees labor relations law will destroy local governments, or at the very least, create "horrendous problems," has prompted the City Council in Daly City to oppose Senate Bill 275.

The controversial labor law, co-sponsored by several state senators and assemblymen, deals with collective bargaining for public employees.

The League of California Cities is expected to come out soon with a strong, unified resolution opposing the bill.

For one thing, according to city staff, the law provides that public employees may strike for higher wages, but does not provide the communities with any method in which to raise revenues to pay for higher costs of employees.

Mayor McRobert Stewart said the law "is going to destroy local government."

He said some cities have the financial ability to pay higher wages — others do not.

It is those cities with limited revenues that will suffer the most, Stewart said.

"If we have to pay more money let the state come up with more money (for the cities)," Stewart said.

Councilman William Schumacher echoed Stewart's feelings.

"If they are going to let the employees get more money, (the state has) got to provide for the city to get more money to pay for these increases," Schumacher said.

The right to strike sections of the law will "create new problems," Schumacher predicted.

And while the law may not destroy cities, "it will create horrendous problems," Schumacher predicted.

Public employees will have the "best of two worlds," Schumacher feels.

They must choose whether they want Civil Service "protection" or the right to strike. "One or the other," Schumacher said.

Stewart agreed by saying, "they (public employees) cannot have both sides."

The matter of resolving issues between a city and employees should be arbitrated by the State, Schumacher said.

The council is expected to pass resolution opposing the proposed law at their next regular meeting, March 24.

Castellan's Idea on How To Conserve DC Water

Daly City's underground water supply is being depleted at an increasing rate and one citizen thinks he has the answer on how to stop it.

Julius Castellan, a retired engineer, told the city council Monday it should study the feasibility of catching storm runoff in percolation ponds and forcing this water back underground to replenish the diminishing supply.

Or the water, somehow, could be caught and used by households for toilets, lawns and other non-consuming uses, he said.

Mayor McRobert Stewart said the district's new $6 million wastewater reclamation facility on Lake Merced Blvd. and John Daly Blvd. will treat water to a degree where it can be used for irrigation purposes.

Stewart said the area's large golf courses and parks are "natural percolation ponds" that filter water down into the underground water table.

What's wrong with pumping rainwater runoff into abandoned water wells around the city, Castellan asked?

Stewart believes such an attempt would pollute the underground water supply because many of the wells have nitrates in them "and you would be pumping bad water down into the water table."

Councilman William Schumacher cautioned against trying anything that might contaminate this natural water supply.

A study of how to capture rain storm runoff and preserve the city's water table was carried out about four years ago and found to be "economically unfeasible" city manager David Rowe said.

advertised product has been offered in good faith at that former price by Matthew's within the 90 days preceding the advertisement.

"We've attempted all along to comply with FTC guidelines," David told an informal press conference this Friday.

The case stemmed from an investigation by Miss Kemp and the consumer fraud division of San Mateo and San Francisco counties last winter.

Miss Kemp said three weeks of investigation turned up 36 instances of alleged false advertising and deception.

"The settlement," David said, "was really a business decision. The allegations involved only a three-month period in our 13-year history, and the current recession dictated our decision to devote our energies and resources to keeping our business strong."

David revealed that Campbell, who was the host of a former TV bowling show and former disc jockey with several Bay Area radio stations, has resigned as the broadcaster of the Matthew's advertisements, which are heard over several stations.

He said the resignation was not related to the civil charges.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson said the money will revert to the general funds of the counties. Much of it in San Mateo County will help finance the consumer fraud division, he said.

The settlement occurred several weeks ago, but was not announced because presiding Superior Court Judge Robert D. Miller believed publicity could affect a trial on an unrelated matter involving David and others.

That case, according to David's attorney, Frank Pagliaro of Redwood City, involved a "false arrest" charge brought by a patron of the store against David, the city of Daly City and two Daly City policemen. James Richardson and Robert Dean.

After two weeks of trial before Superior Court Judge James T. O'Keefe in Redwood City, the plaintiff abandoned the suit and agreed to pay Matthew's and the other defendant's $1,500 in partial repayment of defending the suit, Pagliaro said.

ing the need for a facility here," Hansen said.

Besides Hansen the jail's governing board is made up of James L. Datzman, chief of Pacifica; and Russell Cunningham, chief of San Bruno.

Hansen agrees that twice in the past certain "irregularities" have occurred concerning personal possessions of persons incarcerated at his jail.

The most recent is an undisclosed amount of money missing from a sealed inventory envelope.

The discovery was made after Daly City handed the person over to sheriff's deputies.

"We are now administering a polygraph (lie detector) test to all our personnel who had even the remotest contact with the envelope in question," Hansen said.

The jail is managed by retired United States Marine Harry Smith, 47, who was selected by the governing board. Like seven of his ten "detention technicians" Smith is paid from Des Moines Project money.

Three other detention technician trainees are being paid out of CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) funds.

Some 40 per cent of the county's population resides in the North County.

Hansen and other supporters of the jail note that prior to opening of the local facility, a prisoner was escorted to Redwood City for incarceration.

Before the Des Moines Project, "turnaround time" for an officer escorting a prisoner to Redwood City was about two hours until he was back on his beat.

Now it is less than 30 minutes from Pacifica, closer for Colma and Broadmoor.

"This means the residents of a city have more police protection more of the time," Hansen explains.

DC Woman Arrested

A Daly City woman was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after she allegedly stabbed her husband three times in the head with a kitchen knife at about 10 p.m. Monday, police report.

Mrs. Frances Lougy allegedly plunged the knife into her husband Edward's head during a heated domestic quarrel at the couple's home at 590 Lisbon Way, Apt. 4.

The victim was first taken to Mary's Help Hospital, but refused treatment. He was then taken to Chope Hospital for treatment, police said. He is in satisfactory condition.

DC Man Sentenced

Francisco Ernesto Valdez, 24, of Daly City, fined $500 for attempted unlawful sexual intercourse, told court officials he thought a 12-year-old girl he took home overnight last October was 18 years old.

Valdez, who pleaded guilty, also was ordered Friday by sentencing Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo not to drink alcohol for one year while on probation.

Probation Officer J. P. Jones said that Valdez has a "runaway drinking problem" which Valdez blamed for the Oct. 8 incident.

"She was physically well-endowed and well-advanced for her age," Jones quoted Valdez of having told him.

Charges against James Edward Lowe, 26, of Daly City, stemming from the incident, were dropped several weeks ago by the district attorney's office.

Nutritional Program Will Not Move to SSF

The county's Economic Opportunity Commission, facing a record audience and starting its meeting two hours late Thursday night while it waited for a quorum, took two major actions:

- Established a bilingual, bicultural unit for the Latin community, and,
- Assured a large delegation of senior citizens from Daly City that their nutritional program which meets in the Fraternal Order of Eagles Hall will not be moved to South San Francisco and will continue as long as funds are available.

One side of the supervisors' chambers in the Hall of Justice in Redwood City was filled with elderly Daly City residents, while the other was packed with members of the Latin community.

During the discussion on the program for the Latin community, Edward R. Becks, executive director of the commission, came in for criticism because of his report that the bicultural project "has not met with wide approval from the staff for several reasons:

"Does such a project leave EOC open for such requests from each ethnic group in turn; is it bending to pressure that isn't EOC's responsibility?"

But a program committee recommended such a program be established, and it was created by a unanimous vote.

Transit Board Splits on Hiring Aide

By FRANK LaPIERRE
The San Mateo County Transit District Board split down the middle on the issue of hiring an executive assistant at a salary of $1,800 per month at its second full-fledged meeting in Redwood City Wednesday.

Instead, a second motion was passed in a split 8-1 vote on hiring the assistant at a monthly salary of $1,500. The duties of the executive assistant will be to aid acting General Manager Sid Cantwell, San Mateo County engineer, in all phases of the district's operation.

Cantwell had suggested the position called for $1,800 monthly, inasmuch as the person accepting the job would not be entitled to any fringe benefits and the post was of a temporary nature.

This recommendation met with a 4-4 split (Robert A. Jones was absent) and failed.

A second motion calling for the lesser amount was passed with board member Janet Fogarty casting the lone dissenting vote.

Hiring of three temporary district personnel to work under Cantwell, and the acquisition of office space in the immediate area of the County Government Center, consumed much time at the meeting, as the board moved cautiously toward structuring itself.

Cantwell had asked for three temporary positions — executive assistant and two secretaries — until the district hires a permanent staff.

Asked by one board member if Cantwell had the power to hire or fire employees Aubrey Lumley, Pacifica councilman and board vice-chairman, replied, "When we hired (Cantwell) we gave him the power to hire temporary employees."

Lumley said Cantwell's first duty was as county engineer.

The second post, of acting general manager, "was forced on him (and) he is looking for someone to give him a hand."

These temporary positions are to help give the board proper direction, County Supervisor-Director William Royer said, adding, the board should not "short-change" itself.

But director C. Robert Payne questioned the $1,800 a month salary, asking "if this isn't too high a level?"

Royer said if the job is to be done properly, a person

Mrs. Alicia Gonzales, director of the county's emergency food and medical care program, said, "The EOC was established to be a vanguard for institutional change and to be an advocate for all disadvantaged and depressed peoples.

The time is now for the commission to take action."

Taking exception to Beck's comments, Mrs. Gonzales asserted, "The staff has no right to take a position. This is the responsibility of the commission."

Although the committee recommended a $58,000 program with a four member staff, headed by a coordinator and director with a salary of $12,000 a year be created, in moving for creation of the commission, Mrs. Maria Luna said that salaries should be commensurate with a staff member's qualifications and responsibilities.

Becks reported he has already begun to search for sources of funds to finance the new program, which eventually would set up a bicultural center somewhere in the county.

Goals set were:

- To involve the bilingual, bicultural community in the mainstream of activity on a governmental and community based organization level throughout the county.

- To input any and all policy making and advisory bodies with the needs of the bilingual, bicultural community.

- Seek to involve bilingual, bicultural people on various policy and advisory bodies in the county."

The meeting was conducted in both English and Spanish after it was pointed out many members of the audience spoke no English.

Julius Castelan, a former member of the commission and director of the Daly City nutritional program, said the program serves an average of 110 elderly citizens a day.

But Ray Blair, a member of the delegation, said the program often runs out of food.

"They are always short of food," Mrs. Gonzales told commissioners.

She praised the Eagles for improving their hall to meet fire safety standards, adding, "The seniors don't expect the Mark Hopkins. This facility is the most convenient."

Mrs. Helen S. Kerwin, commission chairman, said the program is funded for only 100 people at each of its sites throughout the county, but assured the elderly citizens the program will continue "as long as we have funds."

DC Policeman, 4 Others Hurt

A Daly City policeman and four other persons were injured Saturday when a parked police patrol vehicle was rear-ended by a car whose driver later was arrested on a drunken driving charge.

Patrolman Ernie DaRoza was admitted to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City for treatment of a fractured collarbone, broken teeth, facial lacerations, an injured left hip and muscle pulls, according to authorities.

A police department spokesman said DaRoza had arrested Gerald A. Whitlock, 44, unemployed, of 478 Warren Drive, San Francisco, on a drunken driving charge.

DaRoza had placed Whitlock in the rear seat of the patrol car which was parked on Geneva Avenue near Castilla and was entering the car himself when, police said, a car driven by Mario F. Flores, 29, 461 14th St., San Francisco, a hotel bellhop, smashed into the rear of the police car.

Whitlock complained of neck injuries, was treated at Mary's Help and released.

Flores sprained his ankle. He was treated at Mary's Help and arrested by police on a felony drunken driving charge after his release from the hospital.

Donors Help to Restore School

Offers of aid are pouring into the Midway School in Daly City today in the wake of a rampage by vandals which caused an estimated $8,000 in damage and loss of special equipment used to help handicapped children.

Several witnesses told police they saw three youths climbing on the roof of the school, used for specially handicapped children, March 11.

Later, other residents of the Midway School area told police they heard noises coming from the small facility.

In no case did anyone call police, according to investigating officer George Quinn.

The damage was discovered Wednesday when school employees reported for work.

Mirrors had been ripped off walls and broken; beanbag chairs slashed open and the beans scattered about; crutches had been used to smash out windows and punch holes through doors; wheelchairs had been crushed by throwing them out of the building and smashing other items down on them; toys were broken; and a video tape camera and typewriter were stolen.

"It's tough to describe the mess," Quinn said. "Everything was broken. Even plants were destroyed and clothes hooks torn off the walls."

Quinn said he is asking for cooperation from residents of the area, "or anyone else who might have seen what was going on," in getting leads on the vandals.

Gary Hirsch, superintendent at the school, said half of the facility's 53 children were sent home Wednesday and Thursday while volunteer and paid crews cleaned up the mess.

The vandals had a "real field day," according to Hirsch.

He said it was doubtful much of the equipment could be replaced, inasmuch as the school was feeling a "big pinch in its budget."

Many of the items destroyed had been made by teachers. Others were donated by parents and concerned citizens. The children also made some of the decorations which were destroyed.

Gavilan Names New President

Dr. Rudolph Melone, dean of instruction at Skyline College in San Bruno, has been named president of Gavilan College in Gilroy. He will also be superintendent of the Gavilan Joint Community College District.

He will leave the North County school at the end of the current school year.

Speaking of the new position, Melone noted, "It has some very interesting options for me as an individual as well as professionally. Gavilan is about half the size of Skyline, which is kind of nice. It has some managerial possibilities," Melone added.

Meantime, Melone pointed out, his full commitment for the balance of the year is to Skyline College. He stated, "Skyline is an outstanding community college, made so by the quality of faculty, counselors and staff. They are devoted to learning and they care about each student. Proof of this is the increasing numbers of students who come to the college."

Melone has been with the San Mateo Community College District for two years.

Charges Dropped

Nine felony counts, including attempted rape and kidnaping, were dismissed by Municipal Court Judge James Miller against Donald William Moseman, 35, of Brisbane Thursday in the North San Mateo County Judicial District Court.

A tenth count — reckless driving — was upheld and Moseman was sentenced to 90 days in county jail. The sentence was suspended.

Also, Moseman was fined $315 and given 30 days to pay the fine and was placed on summary probation.

Moseman was arrested by Daly City police at a roadblock near the foot of Guadalupe Canyon Parkway following issuance of an all-points bulletin by Brisbane police last Feb. 2.

Moseman, of 21 Industrial Way, Brisbane, allegedly had kidnaped two women off a San Francisco street at gunpoint, driven them to his place of business and tried to rape them.

As the alleged intended victims fled the scene, Moseman reportedly discharged a handgun in their direction, police said at the time.

Thursday, Judge Miller said "in the interest of justice and based on a negotiated plea" he had decided to dismiss all but the reckless driving charge against Moseman.

Elderly DC Man Injured In Blaze

An elderly Daly City man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Mary's Help Hospital, after he suffered smoke inhalation from a fire early Monday that destroyed everything he owned.

Joseph Arade, 75, was asleep in his bedroom at 50 Station Ave., Daly City, when the fire broke out in an adjoining room he used to store his clothing.

A niece, Susan Manco, 25, of San Francisco was staying with Arade, because he had been ill for several weeks, fire officials said. She was uninjured in the blaze.

The fire destroyed all of Arade's clothing and furniture, firemen said.

Paper and clothing piled against a wall heater ignited, firemen said.

Estimated loss was $6,000 to the home and contents, fire officials reported.

SSF Man Found Dead in Car

A South San Francisco teacher, William J. Shackleton, 47, was found dead in a car in his garage on Ramona Avenue, Pacifica, March 11.

Although the Coroner's Office is investigating the cause of death, they said preliminary findings show Shackleton died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police Officer Richard Doninelli said that he apparently was despondent because of personal and money problems.

CENTER OPENING

Junior Achievement Center opened its doors at 782 Niantic Ave., Daly City, last week with officials and members of the Daly City Rotary Club in attendance. JA, as it is known, encourages youth to think up product ideas, promote and market them. The new quarters will provide a center for JA in the city. Among those attending ceremonies marking the event were (from left) Ian Roger, executive director of JA; Dr. Floyd Gonella, of Jefferson Union High School District; John Bundros, Daly City businessman, and Al Vial, president of Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

Social Service Center on Coast?

The long awaited Pacifica social service center may be coming to fruition.

Called the Pacifica Project, the center hopes to better serve the clients of county social workers, who have at least half their case loads in this coastside city.

For years social workers have insisted on coming to Pacifica instead of asking their clients to go "over the hill" to South San Francisco, Redwood City or San Mateo social service centers.

Case loads recently have been increasing, and social workers have been asking for a center in Pacifica.

"It (the center proposal) came first from the social workers themselves," Council Member Janice Fulford said Tuesday.

For the past several months, she, Councilman Sid Loran, Police Chief Mel Nelson and Mark Savage, director of the Youth Service Bureau, have been talking with George Pickett, director of the San Mateo County Health and Welfare Dept., about establishing such a center.

Last week, Dr. Pickett was invited to speak to the Pacifica Democrats' breakfast meeting. He said if the city can locate a building for the center within a week, he will be awarded.

Scout-O-Rama Ticket Kickoff

The ticket kickoff for the Scout-O-Rama will be held on Friday, from 6 to 8 p.m. at A.P. Giannini Jr. High School. Prizes for the boys' units, and ticket chairmen will be awarded.

Westborough Pilot Program Rapped; 'Lack of Basics' Cited

A pilot program at Westborough Junior High School — designed to "turn students on" — was attacked at Thursday's meeting of the South San Francisco Unified School District.

Leading the attack were Mr. and Mrs. David Orozco, who submitted a 157-name petition. Orozco complained that children had to take shop and home economics courses, and art and music courses, but were denied such basic courses as English, math and science.

Even children who would go into the skilled trades, he said, would suffer without basics.

Without eighth grade English, students would have difficulty gaining admission to a university.

Not all institutions, added his wife, accept film-making and journalism, for example, as English courses.

At issue is extension of a two-year-old program.

Principal Edna deLerios said there were some misunderstandings about the program. She said a parents' survey showed the majority wanted compulsory industrial arts and home economics.

"We are very concerned with the basics," she said. "We (want) the children to write well, speak well and spell."

These skills, she explained, are taught in all the courses given. Science papers, for instance, are marked down for misspellings.

English teacher Laurel Jensen said the teaching of isolated courses of the basics has been unsatisfactory.

"Our school has decided to try something new. We get them interested in learning — then give them their basic skills."

Students, she said, are too often bored — waiting for something to be given. When they're allowed to take something like "Science Fiction," "Literature of the Supernatural," and "Film-Making," they wake up, do intensive research, and use the same skills that they would on a course of "Literature of the 1800s."

Non-readers become avid readers of books, she said.

Other parents, however, asked that their children be allowed to choose basic courses.

South San Francisco High School Principal George Hurley said incoming students from Westborough compared favorably with other students in their English, math and science.

Assistant Supt. Tom Gaffey said if the program were changed appreciably, the administration would be unable to determine if the pilot program is working.

In other business, the trustees:

Accepted a $3,900 gift from the Westborough Student Body for construction of bleachers.

Approved a course in beginning Japanese, for adult school.

Approved the Parkway Junior High pilot program extension.

Appointed Loren Nash custodian at Junipero Serra School — new transportation supervisor to succeed Tom Harrison, who retired.

Saturday will be the important day for the ladies preparing the Holy Angels Women's Guild Fashion show.

Barbara Richmond's "Fashions on the Go" will be featured at the continental champagne luncheon to be held in the church's parish hall.

The afternoon event, which is under the direction of Mrs. Urbano Maffei and Mrs. Joseph Zanobini, will begin at noon in the hall which will have been specially decorated for the day by Mrs. Robert Dal Porto. Mrs. Conrad Reich and Mrs. Walter Bugler are in charge of reservations. Mrs. Raymond Leahy is the chairwoman of the hostess corp and Mrs. Patrick Callagy is in charge of the models.

IT'S TIME for Lasagne and Bingo! Members of Mary's Help Hospital guild will be gathering in a few hours for their annual pasta feast and bingo party to raise money to purchase the raw materials necessary to create all the goodies for the guild's fabulous Christmas boutique.

Mrs. Lee Stringer, publicity chairperson, points out that the party today is one half of a double-barreled fund raising effort. In just two weeks, on April 2, members and their friends will be doing their bit for the guild, and having a marvelous time in the bargain, as one and all troop over to Golden Gate Fields for a Day at the Races.

While the hour is too late for making reservations for the Lasagne and Bingo luncheon, it is just perfect for reserving space for the Day at the Races. Tickets will be available on Friday, March 21, when the guild holds its regular monthly meeting. (Please note the meeting day is scheduled one week earlier than usual due to the early arrival of Easter week.)

The tray favor committee and the executive board will both meet at 10:30 a.m. with the luncheon and general meeting slated for 12:30 p.m.

NEXT MONDAY, March 24, the Westlake Catholic Women will sponsor an Evening of Recollection at Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church in Daly City.

Mrs. Lyn Dougherty, publicity chairwoman, reports that Father John Dullea will be the moderator. Mrs. Peter Balestrieri, spiritual director of the Westlake Catholic Women, will be in charge of arrangements for the gathering which will begin at 7 p.m.

The evening will conclude with refreshments served by Mrs. Roger Ferrari and her committee in the parish hall.

MEMBERS OF THE UNIVERSITY of Arizona Symphonic Choir will be singing music, appropriate to the season, at a special concert this Sunday afternoon.

The choir will perform at 3 p.m. in the sanctuary of Lakeside Presbyterian Church, Nineteenth Avenue at Eucalyptus Drive. The concert will be free, but donations to the choir will be accepted. The public is invited.

THE EASTER HOLIDAY will offer an opportunity for some of the local teenagers to do a little traveling. All Cadettes in Daly City and Colma will be boarding buses on Monday morning for a trip to Sacramento.

The girls will leave Serramonte High School at 8 a.m. for the state capital with a tour of the state buildings, the city and Sutter's Fort and the Indian Museum in particular.

The trip is a part of the "active citizenship" program of the Girl Scouts.

THE FRIENDS of the Daly City Library will be celebrating their nineteenth anniversary March 27, and a special day has been planned, according to Mrs. Virginia Tierney, the publicity chairwoman.

The extremely beautiful children's book, "The Four Kings of the Forest," will be discussed by its author Joyce Lancaster Wilson. A second guest for the day will be Katherine Hunsicker, children's librarian at the Westlake Branch of the Daly City library since the first part of this year.

The day promises to be an exceptional one and Mrs. Tierney is anxious that all Friends of the Library members and interested community members hold the day and hour, 10 a.m. March 27, for this meeting.

WESTLAKE'S Mrs. Murray H. Freedman enjoyed a most interesting luncheon with a well known author earlier this month.

Ruth Freeman Solomon, author of "The Eagle and the Dove" and "Candlesticks and the Cross" lunched with Emily at Trader Vic's in San Francisco. Mrs. Solomon is currently doing research on a sequel to "Candlesticks and the Cross."

FORMER WESTLAKE RESIDENTS, Mr. and Mrs. James Griffes, were the featured speakers at a luncheon on Thursday.

The Griffes, who have been living on the Carmel peninsula since their return from four years in Vienna, shared their memories and slides with dozens of friends who gathered in the social hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church where the Rev. Mr. Griffes previously served as minister of pastoral care.

Mrs. Eugene Crandall was able to renew an acquaintance with a friend from Lincoln, England after an interval of more than seven years!

Mrs. Rose McIntosh visited with the Crandalls prior to touring in Mexico. Mrs. McIntosh recently spent six months as the music advisor in a folk school in North Carolina.

When she returns to England Mrs. McIntosh will resume her work with the Sue Ryder Foundation, an organization founded following World War II to aid people who had been in concentration camps.

MRS. RUDY ENBERG, director of Friends Outside, reports that that group will hold its annual meeting on Friday of this week at 6:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be San Quentin Associate Warden Clemitt Swagarty.

For information about reservations call the Friends Outside Office, 661-6900, immediately. A limited number of seats are available and a sell out crowd is expected. Mrs. Enberg indicated.

Westmoor Music Students Earn Competition Medals

Music students from Westmoor High School traveled to Serramonte High School Saturday to compete in the Solo-Ensemble Festival there.

Playing from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., the students came away with 37 medals for their efforts. Medals were given for a Superior Rating or I and an Excellent Rating or II, and from the best of the Superior Ratings were selected those to receive Command Performances.

Alison Jenkins started with a flute solo at 8 a.m. and received a Superior Rating. She ended up playing in six events and winning six medals, four on flute, and two on alto sax.

Alan Muraoka took a Superior Medal on clarinet as did John Schoolcraft on his trumpet solo. Excellent ratings went to Jackie Joves with a flute solo, Steve Matsumaga on bassoon and Doug Freiberg with a trombone.

Three girls playing in three different combinations of duets took ratings of Excellent. A flute quartet consisting of Karen Keough, Alison Jenkins, Jackie Joves and Linda Braski received an Excellent Rating.

Meg Johnson received a top honor of a Command Performance with her vocal solo. The trumpet quartet with John Schoolcraft, Steve Stanley, Eric Svenson and Clay Collier took a I rating for Superior. Then the trombone quartet outdid them with a Command Performance. David Jeppson, Doug Freiberg, Dean Palmer and Joel Medina were the proud winners in this group.

Two sax ensembles played with the first receiving a Superior Rating and the second an Excellent Rating. Playing in these groups were: Helen Rogers, Alison Jenkins and Jennifer Wolff on alto sax, Sharon Collier, Ken Galassini and Gina Lastella on tenor sax and Bill Papelbaum or baritone sax.

Musicians came from San Francisco and Northern San Mateo County and played in 10 different events all day. Jan Gaynor is the Westmoor music teacher.

Spinelli Exhibit At Octagon

"The Two Worlds of Mike Spinelli," an exhibit of black and white and color photographs, is moving to the Octagon Gallery in the Daly City Civic Center two months at the Sunshine Gallery in San Mateo.

The exhibit will be open to the public through April 25, Monday through Saturday from 9 to 5 p.m.

A Burlingame resident, Spinelli, is a newsphotographer with the San Mateo Times, and captures in his work the black and white realism of daily events. In his spare time, he creates color images of nature and the environment. These "two worlds" of photojournalism and art are represented in this San Mateo County Arts Council exhibit.

The show includes over a hundred photographs, one of which has been exhibited in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. Taken on a California beach, a glimpse of children on swings, this photo earned best of show and first place in the 14th Biennial Inter-Service Photo-Competition which drew 15,000 entries from all over the world, in 1971.

Volunteering as Part of Therapy

By MICHELLE CARTER
Post Staff Writer

Gail Lawrence and Dorothy Thomas were somewhere between emotional collapse and rehabilitation when volunteering became part of their therapy.

They tried it along with 400 other mental health patients in transition over the last three years and found that it worked for them.

The arrangement also worked for the numerous agencies who received the services of these Transitional Volunteers sent to them through a special program of the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

In 1970, the people here at the Volunteer Bureau became aware that mental health professionals were referring their patients to us as part of their rehabilitation, but we had no program to handle the special needs of this group. That's how the Transitional Volunteers Project came into being," Betty Gillaspy, project director, explained.

By formalizing the program, Mrs. Gillaspy was able to establish some important ground rules for helping the Transitional Volunteer through a very difficult period in his life. First she asked that every potential participant have a referral form from their mental health professional confirming his readiness for such work and stating the rehabilitation goals of the patient.

"Then after an interview I try to match the volunteer with the agency where he has the greatest opportunity to have a successful volunteer experience," Mrs. Gillaspy said.

"I also keep in mind the goals that have been set for that person. Some of the goals that volunteering can help achieve are socialization, learning to keep a commitment, freshening up work skills, just getting out of the house or learning to feel good about himself again."

Although Mrs. Gillaspy doesn't ask potential volunteers what their problems are ("because I'm not a mental health professional"), she notes that "some of these people have been pretty ill, some have even been institutionalized."

The greatest value of the program to Gail and Dorothy, who have been in the program from its beginning, is "being out in the world of reality in a protected way."

Mrs. Gillaspy maintains that special protection by being very selective about the agencies to which she sends the Transitional Volunteers.

"Before I send someone out, I make sure the volunteer is already acceptable to the agency. This program is for people who can't just walk in to a place and be accepted. There's a lot of nervousness and they need assurances of their acceptance."

For Gail Lawrence, volunteering involved working with children — something she had been doing all her life.

"At first you feel like a walking vegetable. It's very degrading. But this program has given me a chance at life again," she said.

But to be truly effective, the volunteering must involve "meaningful, worthwhile work. Not just something to fill up your time," according to Mrs. Thomas.

She began working at the out-patient clinic at Chope Community Hospital and now she supervises a sheltered workshop.

Mrs. Thomas also speaks to groups of people who are involved in mental health rehabilitation. "I have recovered to the point that I can help them," she says with pride.

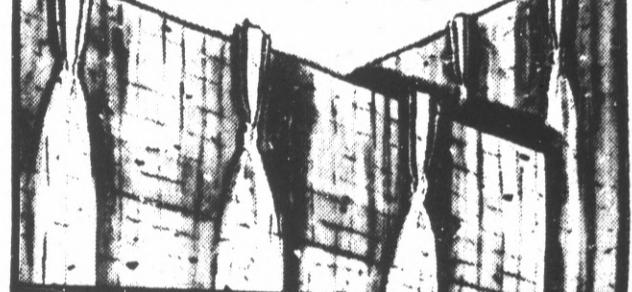

"Then, too, we aren't capable of coping with the competition of a paying job. If we're not doing something essential."

Melons, bush beans and carrots thrive in the loose, well-drained soil that fills raised beds. Comprehensive details on growing vegetables in raised beds and other information about productive gardens is covered in "Vegetable Gardening," a newly revised work by Sunset Books.

Vegetable Gardening: Learn To Test Your Land and Luck

By RO LOGRIppo
Post Staff Writer

What would she be growing in her garden if Mary Quite Contrary was around today?

With food costs rising, methinks she'd replace those silver bells and cockleshells with tomatoes, carrots and other vegetables.

But even if she didn't mend her contrary ways, there's still good reason for you to start producing your own crops if you haven't before. Ask any gardener, and he or she probably will tell you the benefits are more than just monetary. Fresh picked vegetables and Almost half the book is devoted to a gardener's guide with the major kinds of vegetables listed in alphabetical order. Information on planting, watering, feeding, herbs taste better than their supermarket counterparts, and they're more nutritious.

For those interested in testing their land and luck with vegetable gardening, the editors of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine have revised one of their earlier works. The new edition of "Vegetable Gardening," which costs $2.45, contains complete how-to instructions, plans for small or large spaces, and ideas on container planting.

As an extra aid for the novice gardener, the editors have filled the book's pages with graphic line drawings and photographs. Nothing is left to the imagination.

If you lack the land but not the desire to "grow your own" garden, Sunset editors have some good ideas for you too. Apartment dwellers and those with shaded yards, can take solace in the knowledge that their kitchen shelves, window boxes, or hanging planters can be used to cultivate sprouts, lettuce and cherry tomatoes respectively. (Cucumbers, eggplant, strawberries, and New Zealand spinach also are prime candidates for productive hanging baskets if they can be hung on a patio or where the sun will soak them.)

As an extra aid for the novice gardener, the editors have filled the book's pages with graphic line drawings and photographs. Nothing is left to the imagination.

The paperback does have one drawback — the typeface is too small for easy reading.

Community Bazaar Set At Serramonte Center

Organizations that wish to raise money for charitable causes are being invited to participate with a booth which can then be decorated. Three cash prizes will be awarded to the best decorated booths.

Because of space availability, the bazaar is limited to 40 organizations. Interested organizations should call Mrs. Ina at the center office between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. weekdays at 992-4416.

In the past, groups have made money selling hand-crafted items, used books, magazines, records, bric-a-brac, baked goods and home-made candies.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

"Potatoes are cheaper, tomatoes are cheaper, now's the time to fall in love," so goes an old song. The price of tomatoes is not dropping, and I don't feel competent in giving advice on love and romance, but potatoes are cheaper, and now's the time to use them in your daily menu planning.

SCALLOPED POTATOES WITH TUNA

4 medium potatoes
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon dry mustard
3/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 7-ounce can tuna
1/2 cup onions, thinly sliced

Peel and steam the four potatoes in a half to two-thirds cup water for 15 minutes. Drain and cool, reserving potato water. Add to potato water enough milk to make two cups. Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine over low heat. Stir in the two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon mustard, three-fourths teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Add milk all at once and stir until smooth. Bring to boil, stirring constantly.

In two-quart casserole dish, lightly greased, arrange thinly sliced potatoes in alternate layers with the drained can of tuna and half cup onion slices. Pour sauce over all. Bake covered for 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. Remove cover and bake for 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until browned. Serves 6.

The combination of potatoes and cheese is very popular and rightly so, for it's a tasty duo. This next recipe is an unusual way of preparing them with a result that is eye appealing as well as delicious.

CHEESE POTATOES

6 medium potatoes, boiled
1 cube butter or margarine
1/2 cup grated American cheese
1/4 cup fine bread crumbs
Salt and pepper

Peel and slice the six potatoes in half lengthwise.

Place in boiling salted water and cook. Meanwhile melt the cube butter and combine the half cup grated cheese with the fourth cup bread crumbs.

When the potatoes are cooked, drain well and roll in the melted butter and then in the combined cheese and bread crumbs. (This is warm work for your fingers, but be brave and persevere, the results are well worth the discomfort.) Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Place the cheebed potatoes on a lightly greased baking sheet and bake in 350-degree oven for 15 minutes. Serves 6 or 12.

Hospital Development Director Appointed

David A. Nelson has been appointed director of development for Mary's Help Hospital, according to a recent announcement by Sister Florence Urbine, president of the Board of Directors.

A resident of the Bay Area for the past 12 years, he has had an extensive background in the field of fund development, planning and public relations.

Nelson began his career in development work with American City Bureau/Beaver Associates, Inc., a nationally known company, where he became a senior director. He established the first long-range fund development program for a major hospital on the West Coast as director of development for Children's Hospital of San Francisco.

In 1967, Nelson founded Fund Development Consultants, a management consulting firm for nonprofit organizations. Some Bay Area clients included: Samuel Merritt, Herrick Memorial, St. Rose and Marshall Hale Hospitals; Bay Area Tumor Institute, Health Manpower Council of California and Public Relations Council of New York, N.Y.

A Korean war veteran, Nelson holds degrees from Elgin College, University of Illinois, Northern Illinois University, and is a graduate of the Executive Management Course of Northwestern University. In this newly created position, Nelson will be responsible for establishing a permanent long-range development program for Mary's Help Hospital.

Widowhood Guide Available Free

The average American wife can expect close to 10 years of widowhood, and the odds are five-to-one that she will outlive her husband.

This is pretty heady stuff for most married women to digest, but often it is just the jolt needed to get couples motivated to planning for a most unpleasant, but highly probable eventuality.

In hopes of sending couples interested in preparing for the possibility of widowhood in the right direction for help, the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons have joined forces to put out "Your Retirement Widowhood Guide."

The guide, which discusses preparation, bereavement and money and household management, points out that all widows and all experts agree on the need for a husband and wife to plan together for the death of one spouse.

Such preparation includes full knowledge by both husband and wife of the location and amounts of available financial resources, such as bank accounts, stocks, real estate, insurance policies and survivors benefits, as well as the names of legal and financial experts used by the family in the past.

The authors of the guide also give some attention to the emotional problems that accompany the death of a spouse such as the period of "craziness" that almost every widow or widower experiences, the need to work grief out of the system and the importance of re-establishing a personal, single identity.

Also included are useful tips (particularly for widowers) on managing a single household, such as procedures for meal preparation, buying and storing of food and homemaking.

For a free copy of "Your Retirement Widowhood Guide," write to Widowhood Guide, AARP-NRTA, P.O. Box 2400, Long Beach, 90801.

Samuel ChandlerRespect for the Common Man

In 1949 George Orwell published a novel, "1984," in it he painted a picture of a suppressive state that would become a reality if the human race allowed itself to be controlled by men who can manipulate the gadgets that science has produced.

Long before Orwell, however, thinkers were pointing to trends that could lead to a nightmare of thought control and frustration within an era of human degradation. Prior to 1905 a cartoonist depicted what Americans may expect unless direction is given to their mad pursuit of college training. His picture shows 22 people who were required to obtain a degree before they could go to work. Among them are the steeple-jack, taxi driver, hod-carrier, apple seller, sign painter, street sweeper, window washer, grave digger and shoe shine boy. The twenty-third person in the cartoon is the only one who did not have to obtain a degree. He is administrator of all the others.

As early as 1899 a columnist warned that America's preoccupation with the automobile would lead to a period when "autocars" would be equipped with "useless elaborateness" which would fill a practical joker with despair.

Since 1984 is the year when the nightmares may become realities, many authors have directed their comments about the trends of society towards the date. One of these is Richard N. Farmer of the University of Indiana.

Dr. Farmer is a writer who believes that the "Orwells" do not respect the common man. He says the writer's images are askew because "many people assume that the average man is some sort of creep who should crawl back under whatever rock hides his home. It is fascinating to discover this view in literate, intelligent journals, newspapers, and magazines." But, writes Dr. Farmer, "there is a conquering view, sometimes propounded by such people as Eric Hoffer and Tom Wolfe, that the common guy and gal actually are pretty smart. They not only know what they are doing, but they are enjoying it too."

THIS IS THE VIEW that Dr. Farmer adopts as he discusses such subjects as freedom, the role of electronics, of communications and of public life. He writes that "personal freedom for Mr. Average Citizen increases in four ways: when his vocational choices are maximized; when random personal contacts are minimized (the choice of associates); when the possibilities for personal contacts of his own choice are maximized; when the chance to do your thing, whatever this may be, is maximized."

To the average man freedom means such things as turning on your television to see what you want in the comfort of your own home; being able to contact anyone you want on your own telephone; to have 150 amp. fusebox in the basement to run the appliances you want to buy; to use your own automobile to go when you want and where you want and with whomever you want.

Dr. Farmer writes that in 1984 this drive for personal freedom will be expanded and man will tend to maximize whatever he or she perceives to be freedom. It will be a world that is the sum of the choices made by millions of people about their personal freedoms.

"The Real World of 1984" by Richard N. Farmer is a book for the reading, thinking citizen of 1975.

SERVICE AWARD

At a recent Founder's Day program at Garden Village School in Colma, the PTA honored two recipients for their outstanding service to their schools and communities. Congratulating Garden Village's custodian, Jack Hopp, for 16 years service are Principal Eleanor Zenovich and last year's recipients PTA President Mrs. Raymond Farnsworth and William Wu. Unable to attend the program due to a prior Boy Scout engagement was the school's other award recipient Mrs. Dan Powell.

DC Garden Club Honors Mrs. Yohn

Mrs. E. C. Yohn was honored by the Daly City Garden Club and the Fellowship Club at a tea, Feb. 3, in the Fellowship Hall of the Forest Hill Christian Church, San Francisco.

Mrs. Yohn is retiring from active club duties. Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Togerson of Novato, joined her at the table of honor.

Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart presented Mrs. Yohn a proclamation commemorating her club and civic work, for 25 years.

Mrs. Harry Lyman, president of the garden club gave Mrs. Yohn a desk pen set in behalf of the Fellowship Club, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jenkins presented a money tree.

Mrs. Yohn has been active in the club since 1949. She served twice as president, from 1951 to 1954 and from 1955 to 1957, and as corresponding secretary and recording secretary. She also originated the club yearbook, and was the editor until her retirement. In addition, Mrs. Yohn issued the first bulletin, was chairman of the annual Standard Flower Show 19 years, and through her supervision the club has won the "Purple Rosette" from the National Garden Club, Inc., several times. She was the first historian for the Bay-Ocean District. As a committee member for the Bay-Ocean District, she helped revise the by-laws for the San Mateo District. She was entry chairman for the San Mateo County Fair seven years. She also conducted flower arrangement work shops in her home, along with judging flower arrangements at general meetings of the garden club.

Mrs. Yohn similarly has been active in church and civic affairs.

GRAND NATIONAL QUEEN

A freshman at Modesto Junior College, Kristi Lynn Hackett, 18, of Stanislaus county, will reign as Queen of the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition, Rodeo and Horse Show, which begins next Friday at the San Francisco Cow Palace. Kristi, winner of the 1974 title of "Outstanding California Agriculture Student" as well as scholarships valued at $1,200, is studying agricultural public relations. First runner-up winner of the contest was Pat "Nore" Molinari, 18, of Colma. "Nore" has an impressive list of livestock awards to her credit. This will be her fifth year at the Junior Grand National where she will exhibit one Dorset crossbred and one Shropshire fat lamb. A recent graduate of Half Moon Bay high school and currently a savings and loan teller, she is a member of the South San Francisco 4-H club.

Grand National Exposition Slated

"It's fun and it's free," officials said as they extended an invitation to Bay Area parents and their children to attend the 29th Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition and Horse Show, beginning Friday.

The show is billed as the largest and most spectacular youth event of its kind in the world."

During the Livestock Exposition, which runs through March 25, the 3,000 animals brought to the Cow Palace for judging and sale by FFA and 4-H boys and girls from all over the state, will be exhibited.

All major breeds of cattle, swine, sheep and dairy goats will be represented. Darrel Chapman, Cow Palace livestock superintendent, said.

Some 1,900 youngsters, exhibiting animals they have raised during the past year, will be competing for more than awards and honors, Chapman said.

"Many are preparing for careers in what has become the highly technical field of raising livestock to fill the world's growing demand for meat and dairy products," he said.

Highlight for exhibitors, buyers and observers alike will be the colorful and fast-paced market animal auction.

Hogs will go on the block at noon, March 24.

Sheep will be auctioned off at 9 a.m. March 25, followed by the cattle sale at 1:30 p.m.

Tagalog Mass

The public is invited to a Tagalog Mass to be celebrated at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, 60 Wellington Ave., Daly City, on Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Rev. Luis Gustilo will celebrate the mass.

A guest speaker is scheduled.

ADDRESSING INVITATIONS

Easter Egg Hunt Set in Daly City

The annual scramble for Easter Eggs will be March 29 at 11 a.m. as Daly City Easter Egg Hunts, sponsored by the Department of Recreation, will take place at eight different locations throughout the city.

Youngsters, toddlers, through fourth grade, may hunt at any one of the following schools or parks: Westmoor High School, Gellert Park, Midway, George Washington, Colma, F. D. Roosevelt, Westlake Park, and Marchbanks Park.

Prize eggs will also be hidden amongst the regular eggs. Those discovering these eggs will be awarded an Easter basket full.

If the hunts are cancelled because of rain, the candy hen eggs will be distributed on all local playgrounds March 31 at 4 p.m.

Additional adult supervision at the hunts is needed. Interested parents and other adults may call the Daly City Recreation Office at 992-5345 to volunteer.

Spring Swim Classes Offered at Westmoor

Registration for Daly City Recreation Department sponsored swimming classes are now being taken at the new Westmoor Swimming Pool, 131 Westmoor Ave.

Session I classes for beginners, advanced beginners, and intermediates ages 6 to 17 will commence at 10 a.m., March 24, and continue daily through March 29. Five half-hour lessons per class will be offered for a fee of $2.50.

Session II features classes for Tiny Tots (3 to 6 years) beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates, will start April 5 and continue each Saturday morning until June 7. Nine half-hour lessons are offered for a $4.50 fee.

Adults — beginner and advanced beginner classes will start on April 2 at 7 p.m. and continue to May 28 with nine sessions for $4.50.

Exact class schedules and requirements may be obtained by contacting the Westmoor Pool at 992-4190, during recreation operating hours: Monday through Friday 7-9:30 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.

Participants must register for classes in person at the pool. Parents must accompany children when registering.

Additional programs available include youth instructors aid program (12-17 years) during the week of March 24-29. Youth will be taught to assist Water Safety Instructors in class situations. There is no fee for this instruction, and the program will run continuously on Saturday mornings through June 7. Advance registration is mandatory.

Cast Selected For 'Mousetrap'

The Pacifica Spindrift Players announce that casting has been completed for its next production, Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap."

Struckman, Craig Cummins will be directing "The Mousetrap," and the assistant director will be Mari Heise.

"The Mousetrap" is the longest running play ever performed on stage. The Players' production will open Friday evening April 11 for a three weekend run at Oddstad Park Center, Pacifica.

CSM Community Program Sets Workshops, Seminars

A wide range of seminars, workshops and various in-service training programs, or occupational courses, will be offered to the public by Community Services at the College of San Mateo during the College's spring vacation, the week of March 24, a time when the campus otherwise would be virtually deserted.

Entitled Spring Institute, the new experiment in broader use of campus facilities is expected to attract many segments of the public who might not take advantage of courses scheduled by the department at other times.

Opening the week-long program will be a one-day seminar on "Positive Procrastination" to be presented by the time management expert, Alan Lakein on March 24.

In-service training programs offered include three days of "Continuing Education" seminars for nurses, concentrating on patients who have gastrointestinal or urinary problems; and four full day-long seminars in "Spanish Language and Culture," geared for teachers who will be free to come to the campus at that time.

Another course, entitled "Strategies for Problem Solving" will benefit those who want to develop new methods of attacking problems.

"Blueprint Reading for Welders" is an occupational course which is expected to attract participants from corporations throughout the Bay Area. Another occupational course, "Graphic Art Airbrush Techniques," has already reached maximum enrollment.

For individuals who have left the corporate world to go into business for themselves, there is a two-and-one-half day seminar providing basic business skill under the title, "Making It As An Independent in Business."

Living a Second Life

Mark Harris, an old San Francisco State mentor who also has written the best two pieces of fiction on sports we've ever read ("The Southpaw" and "Bang the Drum Slowly"), wrote a non-fiction book nine years ago called "Twenty-one Twice." It was essentially a journal about how Harris handled a Peace Corps assignment in his 42nd year of life. The title was obvious. Harris was living his second lifetime.

I was reminded of the title of that book last week at the annual Mission High School athletic alumni banquet. Although what transpired at the banquet had nothing in common with what Harris did in his book, I did get the old deja vu, the feeling of living my second life.

There I was innocently eating dinner and drinking several things with Joe Delfino, who used to play alongside me when we were kids at Mission. I played first base, sort of, and he played second so well that everybody ignored me, which automatically had to make me look better than I was. Delfino covered so much territory that our coach, George Wolfman, used to tell me that anything hit on the right side of the infield that wasn't directly at me, I should let go through for Delfino to handle, especially if the ball was in the air, because they hadn't yet developed baseball hats with pockets in them, which is what I would have needed in those days to catch a pop fly. My head was always in danger of being crushed by falling objects.

Another reason why Wolfman wanted me to scramble to first as quickly as possible on a ball hit in the general direction of second base, was because Delfino had such a quick, instinctive release, that there was always a danger that I couldn't beat the ball to the bag.

Wolfman was always warning Delfino about throwing too fast, and Delfino was always annoyed with me, because I never seemed to get where I was supposed to be fast enough.

ACTUALLY, if there was one thing I could do in those days, it was move. Especially if I thought I was in danger. And getting whacked from behind by one of Delfino's powerful throws was dangerous. So I always got to the bag as quickly as I possibly could, and for two years never missed a throw, but came close many times.

Delfino, however, was such a gifted player, so unaware of his excessive quickness, that I believe that there were times when he didn't think I was hustling. So one day he pulled me aside, and said, "Pacini, if you don't move your fanny to first the next time I get the ball, I swear I'm going to throw it right at your head." It was then that I realized that he had actually probably been holding back for two years!

Well, we were in a sort of throw-away game that day, and it happened, finally. Delfino got a grounder near first and made one of his quick, powerful little flips, and the ball went whizzing by my ear just as my left foot touched the base. The runner went to second and Wolfman called time. Came right out on the field, and read Delfino out.

Actually, it had been all in fun for Delfino. If he had wanted to really hit me, he could have, and the play meant nothing to the outcome of the game. In the clubhouse after the game, Joe could hardly keep from laughing over the incident. He just kept shaking his head and muttering, "You're always getting me in trouble, Pacini."

And that was true. Almost invariably, as Wolfman gave his pre-game "chalk" talks, Delfino and I would be talking in the back of the locker room (which may account for the fact that Mission started losing championships when we came on the scene), and because I was sneakier, or Delfino was louder, or a combination of the two, Wolfman would always be stopping in mid-sentence and shouting, "Will you shutup, Delfino."

So there Delfino and I were at the banquet, reminiscing about those days when I always got Joe in trouble and who was at the lectern speaking at that time? You guessed it. George Wolfman. And, right there in front of hundreds of people who stopped in mid-sentence to tune over the public address system, "Will you shutup, Delfino?" Naturally.

When the laughter around us had subsided, Delfino, barely able to subdue his own laughter, glanced sideways at me and muttered out of the side of his mouth, "After 23 years Pacini, you're still getting me in trouble."

The more things change, the more they stay the same.

LOCAL NOTES: Former S.F. State Little All American fullback Bob Rodrigo has resigned as head football coach at Cal State Hayward and will now be a simple teacher within the athletic department.

But he is being replaced by another former Gator, Tim Tierney, an All Far Western Conference defensive back, who picked up coaching experience as a defensive coach at S.F. State, St. Ignatius High, Homestead High, and at Cal State, under Rodrigo.

Gator matmen Lloyd Tease (167) and Alex Gonzales (126) won NCAA Division II championships.

Former Westmoor, Cal and Jeff Orlich has been signed as a free agent by the Raiders.

Steve Shirley, the former Terra Nova southpaw signed by the Dodgers last year, is said by top brass organization men to have the best pitching arm in the organization. Add the fact that KC lefty Bob McClure — also out of Terra Nova — is having the same things said about his wing within his organization, and one wonders what they do in Pacifica to left-handers.

St. Louis is slated, this year, to field half a former Mission High infield, by proxy. Third sacker Ken Reitz is the son of Roy Reitz, who played for Mission, and first baseman Keith Hernandez is the son of Johnny Hernandez, who also played for the Bears.

IT'S REFRESHING to note that Rich Kelley, Stanford's 7-foot plus center and Northern California Player of the Year, packed a free throw average of 83.2 this season. As you know, big men, especially in the pros, it seems, just don't sink free throws with professional regularity.

Strangely, a private study we did last year showed that free throw percentages — not only among big men, but among medium and small sizes, as well — seem to shrink in the pros. Even Wilt Chamberlain wasn't a bad free thrower as a college player. Our conclusion was that the pressure does it.

But that as it may, or something like that, who do you think is the best free throw shooter among today's regularly playing big men? We've looked it up, and it's Bob McAdoo, with lifetime 78.6. If you don't consider him a BIG man, try John Block, at 77.8. If you prefer a REALLY big man, it's Bob Lanier, 76.7.

If YOU'RE WONDERING how the Warriors can lead the NBA in rebounds without an overpowering pivot man, consider this: Clifford Ray and George Johnson together average 18.1 rebounds a game, which, if they were one man — which, as a team they are — would easily be enough to lead the NBA in that category. As a bonus, they together average 13.2 points, 3.1 blocks and 1.6 steals.

Also consider that guards Bill Dudley, Charley Johnson and Phil Smith average, per 48 minutes of playing time, 10, 6.74 and 7 rebounds, respectively. When one realizes that forward Rick Barry averages only 6.71, one gets the idea that Warrior backcourt men are doing one helluva job on the boards.

But don't berate Barry, because he does some things better than guards do. Rick averages, every 48 minutes, 3.2 steals and 7.1 assists; Johnson goes 3.1 steals, 5.3 assists; Dudley 2.7 and 6.8; Smith, 2.8, 6.2. Other guards: Butch Beard, 2.4, 6.6; Jerry Muhins, 2.2, 5.8; Steve Bracey, 1.7, 7.2.

Butte State Champion

Skyline Trojans: A 'Together' Team

By JOHN MURPHY
Post Correspondent

The old adage that says a big man is a must for a winning basketball team was partially disproven by the 1974-75 Skyline College Coast Conference basketball champions.

But following Butte College's impressive 87-70 win over the smallish Trojans in Saturday night's State championship game in Fresno, one might think that notion still has credibility.

Butte, the state's number-one ranked team entering the tournament, captured tournament. I'm very proud," Newcomer commented.

Center Bob Kilpatrick, who battled gamely with a height disadvantage all year long and still remained the backbone of the team, added, "It's always tough to end on a loss, but I'm so proud of everyone and especially Coach Newcomer. We wouldn't have been here without him."

Kilpatrick continued, "Anybody would be proud to be a part of this team. If ever there was a perfect manage a 25-footer by Pappageorge.

SC

came right back to tie 21-21 on a corner shot by guard Mason Larkin and a lay-in by guard Frank Denucci but Butte quickly rattled off ten points to a lone free throw by Trojan forward Mark Mackenhausen and the Roadrunners were well on their way to a 44-34 half time lead.

The Roadrunners held a 26-point lead at 73-47 with 6:11 remaining. The Trojans refused to be crushed at the end, however, as Denucci and Pappageorge sparked a their 28th straight win on the strength of a devastating performance by 6-7 freshman center Paul Henderson. The state's leading rebounder hauled down 26 rebounds and added 28 points while blocking seven shots against an outmatched Skyline front line.

Despite the loss, Skyline coach Lyle Newcomer and several players reminisced quietly over their outstanding season and also had some complimentary words for their opponents:

"Our goal was to get to the State tournament and I think that we can look back on several memorable moments during the season that helped us get there," Newcomer said.

"We were a very together team and the key to our success was that we believed in what we were doing — our fastbreak and our press, for example. Even in this game when we were down by 20 points with about six minutes left our kids still believed we had a chance."

"This team came a long way without a big man. We were very fortunate, we had no key injuries, won the big games when we had to and were able to get to the State definition of a team then this is it."

The Trojans started quickly against Butte grabbing a 4-0 lead in the opening minutes and stretching that margin to seven at 15-8 on a jumper by guard Nick Pappageorge. However, Roadrunner forward Steve Spooner and guard Rocky Smith went to work combining for Butte's next 14 points while the Trojans could only spirited rally in the final minutes that reduced the final margin.

Henderson was effective in the final 20 minutes, collecting 15 points and 17 rebounds. He also had ample help from Smith who drilled in 13 seconds half points to keep Skyline at a safe distance.

"Henderson's definitely the best JC center I've seen," Kilpatrick said. "He plays all phases of the game well. He shoots well, is great on the boards and is a tremendous shot-blocker."

Freshman center Steve Kennedy from El Camino agreed. "He was hard to penetrate against — for sure the best we've faced."

"It was a hard team for us to match up with," Newcomer stated. "Smith and Henderson dominated at times and they played good, sound defense. Their 1-2-2 (zone defense) was so effective because we could get the ball inside but they were able to stop us in there and could move out on our outside shooting as a result."

Smith led Butte with 29 points on 12 of 22 from the field and five of seven from the line. Following Hender-

TROJAN POINT-MAKER

Skyline College's Ike Allmond lifts his team's spirit in two ways: by winning hurdle races, and by keeping his teammates "loose" with pre-competition frolic.

Serramonte Graduate

Super Hurdler Allmond Is Skyline's Relaxer

By DICK DRAPER

Skyline College hurdler Ike Allmond has a laugh-and-the-world-laughs-with-you philosophy.

"Yes, Allmond is a real spark on the team," says Trojan track and field coach Bob Lualhati. "He's kind of the team clown — everybody loves him."

Allmond cracks jokes, pokes fun at his teammates, chuckles a lot, and with shot-putter Gerrit Schram generally makes mayhem out of the mundanity of practice and pre-meet discussions.

But there is a reason behind the sophomore's levity. As the first pistol shot and the first athletic grunt of competition approaches, the team's collective stomach muscles twitch with anxiety: there are catches in the throat; breath comes in gasps; the mood is somber, the air tensile.

Enter Mr. Allmond.

"Joking around makes everybody feel loose, and that helps the team," explained Allmond, who after relieving his teammates' tension must psychologically then go to the hurdles and work out a little bit to get the butterflies out.

"Before, I could take a false start to get loose. As soon as he said, 'set' I'd take off. But now, one false start and you're out."

"I just keep working out until everything comes naturally. If I'm doing something wrong, I work on it until it's right. And I never watch how the others run — it does no good. I just stay relaxed. I know what I'm doing."

That is an understatement. Allmond knows EXACTLY what he is doing.

The Serramonte High graduate, the state's top-ranked prep hurdler with a 13.9 clocking in 1973, and this season his 14.4 time in the 120 high hurdles is the best among community college athletics.

"Ike's not that fast," Lualhati said of Allmond, "but he's mentally tough — he really attacks those hurdles. And he's not that tall, only about 5-10, but he has very good technique."

Allmond knew as a Serramonte freshman that speed alone couldn't carry him. It wasn't pure. It didn't come naturally. He knew he had to train, to work, to sweat to reach his potential. And he had to pick a specialty.

"I couldn't make it in the 100 or 220, or in the mile, so the hurdles was about the only thing left," said Allmond.

He worked every day on his own, watched other hurdlers, took a cram course in the event via physical education books and ran cross-country to keep in shape.

Allmond passed the course with straight A's, and he moved down prep competition and looked a possible CIF state champion until that final, fatal night in Woodland two years ago.

He was No. 1 in the state, the favorite. Everything

St. Clair, Pickets In Clash

Former San Mateo County Supervisor and San Francisco 49er defensive end Bob St. Clair had a legal tiff with some United Farm Workers Union pickets Friday night, resulting in the arrest of 17 of the pickets in front of St. Clair's liquor store at 3900 24th St., San Francisco.

St. Clair called San Francisco police just after about 20 pickets arrived at about 6 p.m. in front of his store. Reportedly, St. Clair said he did it to enforce an injunction issued in February, 1974, by a Monterey County Superior Court judge limiting the number of UFW pickets at any one of the approximately 2,150 liquor stores involved, including St. Clair's.

The pickets Friday began singing and chanting and eight were arrested just after 7 p.m. Another group returned shortly after and nine more were arrested.

The pickets allegedly were in violation of the court order, issued as a result of the UFW's boycott of Gallo wines. The order permits only three pickets at any one store entrance or driveway.

UFW leader Cesar Chavez said at the time his union would defy the order, calling it unconstitutional, and St. Clair was quoted as saying that pickets had been over the injunction limit before but had left when warned by police.

The pickets are allowed to chant "Don't buy Gallo wine," according to St. Clair, but these also were telling customers not to shop at the St. Clair store and booted them if they entered. It was reported.

Leo Ryan Reverse Field

Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, did a turnaround in Washington last week when he voted against further aid to Cambodia to tide that Southeast Asian country through the rest of this fiscal year in its battle against Communist forces.

Ryan was among the 18-15 majority in the House Foreign Affairs Committee vote Wednesday to reject a compromise $82.5 million in emergency military aid resolution to Cambodia.

Ryan also had voted with the 189-49 majority in a Democratic Caucus vote Wednesday on the same resolution.

House Democrats say they can find enough votes among the 51 missing from their party caucus to kill the aid proposal with an absolute majority of 217 votes on the House floor.

Ryan earlier this year drew considerable criticism for this support of a $300 million request from President Ford for aid to South Vietnam for the rest of this fiscal year.

Ryan said then he only wanted to give the new heavily-Democratic Congress time to determine the direction of future foreign policy. But this vote and current Congressional feeling about dropping the aid altogether shows that "It looks as if they've already made their decision," a Ryan spokesman said Thursday.

The $82.5 million was a compromise of a Ford request for $222 million for Cambodia for the rest of this year. An original $275 million appropriation for this year has been exhausted.

Drug Bust Nets Two

Daly City police arrested two men on charges of possession of cocaine and possession of cocaine for sale following a routine traffic stop at the corner of San Jose Ave. and Flourney Street about 9 p.m. Thursday.

Arrested was Norman E. Everline, 29, of 252 Franklin St., Daly City, and James M. Jones, 29, of San Francisco.

Police said the street value of the narcotic allegedly confiscated from the pair was valued at "several hundred dollars."

Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose or

Almaden Grenache Rose, 5th

Rose wines are known for their adaptability to a variety of meals. Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose has a subtle sweetness of fresh ripe fruit. This wine can be contrasted to the more dry taste of Almaden Grenache Rose.

Depending on your preference, either of these wines would compliment the featured ham or beef features. Serve chilled.

Either of these wines are $1.89 a fifth.

College Board Told Day Care Centers Needed

The issue of developing a system of child care centers dominated Wednesday's meeting of the San Mateo Community College District board of trustees.

Led by Ms. Jacqueline Massing, president of the College of San Mateo student body, a group of interested women and their supporters urged the board to resolve to do everything it could to institute centers on each of the three district's three campuses.

Ms. Massing noted that the matter has been at least seven months in limbo. She first presented a case for the centers last August.

She and other speakers pointed out that they believe there is a need for organized child care in the district. They cited statistics to bolster their view and they presented the board with petitions signed by more than 3,000 persons which also agreed with this opinion.

The speakers all emphasized that the district could make a significant contribution to the education of scores of women if centers were funded.

Spokesmen from a number of groups were heard. These included persons representing: the Association of American University Women, welfare mothers, Head Start, the Economic Opportunities Commission, the Women's Center of San Mateo County, Early Childhood Education, the Veterans Association of Canada College in Redwood City and the Canada ex-convicts' prison project.

Ms. Massing told the board that, "We pleaded our case last August and there is still no relief on the horizon." She added, "We challenge you to take a positive attitude toward this. Be responsive and you will find community support. This is long overdue."

In reply, the district's director of planning, Dr. Clifford Denney, pledged that, within one week, he will prepare a comprehensive report for the board on child care. Some of the aspects of his report, he said, will include: potential sources of funding, possibilities for involving the community as well as the district, available background, statistics and other relevant details.

He said the report will be available to the board for its meeting of March 19.

He added that a report that a federal grant of $78,000 worth of announced manpower development funds was available to Canada for a child care center was at least partially in error.

There are technical difficulties with the grant's provisions, he said. According to district chancellor Glenn Smith, an effort is being made to attempt to work out those problems.

Whether or not final action could be taken by the board on that grant at the March 19 meeting remains to be seen.

Smith said, "The grant is being reviewed, we are not poised for acceptance at this time."

At the end of the presentation, the board took no action.

State Dept. Jobs Are Available

By LIN DAY

If you'd rather look at a sacred cow and a snake charmer than a Peninsula movie, or visit the Sphinx rather than a San Mateo city council meeting, or feel the breeze in Samoa rather than the afternoon wind up the Bay, the State Department is looking for you.

Particularly if you are young, bright, and can type, file and do those things State Department people can do.

For those who can meet its qualifications, including an extensive background check, there are jobs awaiting — jobs that carry salaries starting at $5,996 and ranging up to $8,473 per year, and all sorts of special benefits.

The benefits, beyond those of walking exotic streets in strange cities with a different way of life, have the solidarity of main-street America.

Foreign service employment benefits offered in the U.S. department of State's hiring program include:

Annual salary increases. (You have to be satisfactory.)

Extra pay for passing foreign language ability tests.

A liberal retirement plan and low-rate group insurance.

Federal health benefits and medical care.

Travel expenses to and from this country to take the job. (Shipment of effects included.)

An overseas housing allowance or free quarters. In some cases, too, a cost-of-living allowance, and a salary differential.

An annual leave that amounts to two weeks the first year and 20 working days a year after three years. Additionally, 13 work days a year of sick leave "to be used as needed."

It's a heady package. If one goes to the land of Haile Selassie, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, one winds up with a quarters allowance of $2,500, a salary differential of $847, and a total package, if employed at an $8,473 base pay, of $11,820 and Africa to visit.

Even more financially attractive is Monrovia, Liberia, where the allowances, cost-of-living extra and salary differential bring that $8,473 up to a total package of $15,171.

At Ouagadougou, Upper Volta, the total package is only $11,208, but government living quarters are provided without charge.

"Stenographers and typists, in performing their typing or stenographic duties, are members of the backup team for foreign service officers who carry out the objectives of U.S. foreign policy," a State Department statement says.

Tanforan Shopping Center Restaurants

As general manager of the restaurant complex of the Tanforan Shopping Center in San Bruno, Jack Kuks (pronounced "Cooks") would seem to have a monumental job on his hands. There are nine different kinds of mini-restaurants and there is also the job of keeping up the 500-person seating area. Not to mention the cleaning and supplying of dish — and silverware for all the businesses. But Jack Kuks says it's all in a day's work and claims it isn't much different from running a shipshape vessel. Since Kuks is a retired bosun's mate (with 23 years service with the U.S. Navy), the situation would seem to be well in hand.

Kuks and his assistant manager, Veloria "Sam" Sabas, spend many hours daily on the premises, for the Garden Restaurant complex is open seven days a week: 11 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. weekdays and Saturday; until 9 p.m. on Fridays, and from noon to 5:30 p.m. on Sundays.

The Tanforan Shopping Center's restaurant complex feeds at least 2500-3000 persons a day, a clear cut indication of just how popular the place is. Don't be surprised to see Jack Kuks or his assistant bussing tables in a moment of overflow. "We involve ourselves in everything if need be. That's what we're here for," says Kuks, who reminds "Bright Lights" readers that the special 50 cents off coupon has been extended through March 31. This is a sure way of treating the entire family to dinner out without putting stress on the wallet.

Brunch, priced at $6.50 with a delicious Ramos Fizz included, will be on tap from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dinner, featuring a special gourmet Holiday menu, will be served from 4 p.m. . . . Valerian, the premier pianist currently presiding at the Grand piano in the lounge of Palo Alto Shirt Tail restaurant, has a new record album out of favorite requests from his following, such as "The Way We Were" and "Send In The Clowns" . . . Enrico Romano, the Rockaway Beach pizza baron, has been busy cleaning his guns for an invasion of the wilderness. His "sights" are set for big game. Guess we might as well be ready for buffalo or bear pizza to soon appear on his selective menu of pizza and Italian specialties. Romano's as you well know, is one of the most popular Italian restaurants this side of Italy. . . . Joe and Angelina Visit the Moonraker

Joe and Angelina, a steady twosome, really get around. During a recent Saturday night storm they were seen dining and enjoying the warmth and congeniality at The Moonraker, a romantic setting in Rockaway Beach which offers illuminated beachside viewing of the Pacific Ocean . . . Finocchio's lavish "Spotlight on Show Business" revue features an all-star cast of talented female impersonators. The opening and closing production numbers spotlight the Eve-ettes, Finocchio's glamorous chorus line. One of the star dancers in the chorus is Renee De Carlo . . . Martinelli's Steak Pit is helping diners to beat inflation by offering families a special plate and prices for children. Children have a choice of chicken or ground sirloin steak and the price is 99 cents. This offer is available through April 27, with a limit of three children's specials to each family . . . "Happier Hours" are hours of relaxation at Scotty Campbell's when drinks are only 75 cents (except premium and liqueurs) 10 p.m. to closing, Monday through Thursday; from 10:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, and 9:30 p.m. on Sundays are the hours for unbending in the friendly atmosphere of this fashionable Redwood City restaurant. . . . Tony and Louie Licata are the two handsome "youngies" who stroll about Vince's Italian Restaurant and Seafood acres with the look of authority. And rightly so — they are the sons of Vince Licata, the unofficial goodwill ambassador to the Nevada territory, who heads this restaurant empire . . . Phil Lehr has raised the "Funny Fruit" (prunes) to gourmet status in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco. Phil's Prune Pernod is a delectable flaming dessert relished by gourmets with a sweet tooth. . . . There are numerous fine Chinese restaurants in North County, but to be singled out from the competition you have to excel in every way. The Superior Palace restaurant in San Francisco feels that this is the axiom of their success. Experience for yourself: enjoy lunch, dinner and cocktails

A Look at Manpower

In San Mateo County

By GEORGE GOLDING
"You are looking at an office to which a federal dump truck backs up every now and then and unloads a bunch of money which we have to get rid of," Charles Moody said.

"Sometimes I wish they wouldn't."

Moody is administrator of the county's Manpower Programs Coordination office, storm center of complaints about the way President Gerald Ford's promised billions for jobs were being distributed locally.

In mid-February Moody's office had four people including himself.

From Jan. 10, when it became apparent San Mateo County would get about $1.6

million of the federal money pie, Moody had to contact eligible local agencies get proposals, sort through them with the aide of the County Manpower Planning Council (a body of mostly of non-elected citizens), and see that hiring was started by January 30.

He also had to see that 30 per cent of the 167 possible jobs were filled by the end of January and the other 70 per cent filled by the end of February.

Somehow his office got the word out.

The manpower office received "proposals" to create 1,200 jobs. California Employment Development Department received applications from 1,400 people who wanted those jobs.

Moody's office was snowed under by applications, requests for information about applications, proposals, requests and demands.

Officials of some cities and agencies complained they were unable to find out whether their applications had been accepted, rejected or even received.

"They did not even give us the courtesy of a reply," more than one person complained.

In a conversation with Supervisor Edward Bacciocco, Moody admitted there had been some "botchery."

Bacciocco described the tangle as "a bureaucratic snafu."

Managers of some cities described the situation as "that mess in the county."

County Job Openings

Jobs being financed in San Mateo County by the $1.6 million federal program known as "Title VI" of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 include these positions and agencies:

County of San Mateo, 40 positions: Health and Welfare Dept., 8 from clerk to environmental technician; Engineering and Roads, 8, from clerk to junior engineering aide; Building Construction and General Services, 10, junior draftsman to airport attendant; Economics Opportunities Commission, four planning interns, one clerk; Manpower Administration, 9, employment project aides.

California Department, 11 interviewers.

Manpower District I, (Daily City and Pacifica), 22 jobs total: Daly City, 14, unspecified; Pacifica, 5, park maintenance, firefighers, custodian; Laguna Salada School District, 3, maintenance workers.

Manpower District II, (Brisbane, South San Francisco, San Bruno, Millbrae), 27 jobs total:

Brisbane, 3, maintenance, police trainee, secretary; South San Francisco, 10, property clerk, administrative aide, public service technicians, maintenance, clerical aides, South San Francisco Boys Club, Intern; South San Francisco Schools, custodian; South San Francisco Red Cross, bilingual secretary; Family Service Agency, family counselor; San Bruno, 6, personnel aide, planning aide, maintenance; San Bruno YWCA, program intern; Skyline College, groundsman; Millbrae, 2, laborer trainees.

Manpower District III, (Burlingame, Hillsborough, San Mateo, Foster City), 22 jobs total, all San Mateo City:

Norma Gist Free Preschool, 3 teachers and aides; North Central Neighborhood Council, executive director, administrative aide; NAACP Credit Union, clerk; College Readiness Program, film producer, director, secretary; Senior Citizens Nutrition Project, trainee cook, clerk; San Mateo Boys Club, 2, activities interns; Peninsula Association for Retarded Children and Adults, 3, community workers, clerk; Planned Parenthood, handyman, nurse's aide.

Federal rules limit maximum US contribution to these jobs to $10,500 per year, including benefits, though the local agency may add to this.

Four jobs are listed at $10,000 per year. Six more are listed as above $9000. Among those listed by annual wage, others range as low as $6,000.

Among those listed by monthly wage, the range is from $450 to $833.

Listed hourly wages range from a low of $2.25 per hour (EOC clerical trainee) to Brisbane maintenance man, at $4.81.

County Manager M.D. Tarsches recommended, and the board approved, nine new positions for the office, which presently has a staff of four persons, including Manpower Program Coordinator Charles R. Moody.

Furthermore, Tarsches said, with the employment programs destined to expand, he probably will be recommending an additional four positions in the future. He stated that the $120,000 a year financing for the positions will be from federal funds.

The new staff positions will comprise an assistant to Moody, six analysts and two typist-clerks.

New San Bruno Mountain Park Access Requested

A proposal that the county acquire "Quarry Road" in Brisbane as a second access to the 244 acre San Bruno Mountain Park and connect it to an as-yet-to-be-constructed gold course in the Brisbane Lagoon and develop "a sea level to mountain top park" was made to the county's park and recreation commission Wednesday afternoon.

The idea was submitted by Al Schmidt, a representative of the Peninsula Regional Group of the Sierra Club. Schmidt said that as the lagoon is now below water it might be acquired at no cost to the county.

John T. Brook Jr., country director of parks and recreation, however, said there are numerous owners of the underwater property, which has already been subdivided. But, he said part of the former Brisbane dump site is owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad and can be used for no other purposes for 30 years.

"I think this concept has great merit," Brook commented.

It was pointed out that the area proposed for acquisition is the only property in the vicinity protected from fog during summer months, compared to the "saddle area" of the mountain which is planned for a picnic facility.

Schmidt told the commission he believed the proposal is "within the county's resources" to acquire.

Commissioners agreed to take up the new proposal with the county planning commission at a joint meeting on the afternoon of March 26.

Mrs. Polly Sandkulla, commission chairman, suggested that both commissions take up the question on how negotiations can be speeded up with San Francisco to acquire the Hassler Health Home west of Redwood City and San Carlos, and that San Francisco be asked by San Mateo County Supervisors to take no action on sale of the property until they have time to review the open space and recreation element of the county's master plan.

Commissioners moved toward development of the more than 1,000 acre San Pedro Valley County Park when they approved a master plan and a management plan and accepted a recently completed environmental impact report.

Dr. Apple, Research Scientist, to Speak

At Shabbat Services Friday evening, Dr. Martin Apple will join Rabbi Herbert Morris for a "Shabbos Shmoosz" at Beth Israel-Judea.

Dr. Apple is well known to the congregation and community. He is a research scientist presently on the faculty of the University of California Medical Center. His major area of research is cancer. His findings have been published in medical journals of about 40 papers on new therapies, new drugs and major new idea on how to prevent cancer.

Dr. Apple has been invited to address the American Cancer Society, U.S. Congress and major medical centers here and abroad. A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Minnesota, Dr. Apple also has been an active member of the community having served as a member of Bureau of Jewish Education Board, PTA officer of elementary and junior high schools, delegate to the S.F. Human Rights Commission and has been the recipient of the International

RECRUIT CLASS
Navy Seaman Ferdinand Kogler, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Kogler of 1601 Trollman Ave., San Mateo, graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

He is scheduled to report to Communications Technician "A" School, Great Lakes, Ill.

The two reports will be submitted now to the Board of Supervisors.

Brook reported that there is $560,000 in the department's development budget to complete the first phase during the 1975-76 fiscal year.

The commission agreed that the county should allocate some $60,000 to $70,000 of the county's share of $141,000 in state park bond funds to develop about a four acre park across Cabrillo Highway from the Half Moon Bay Airport after Eldon F. Oberacker of the Princeton-by-the-Sea Improvement Club appeared to ask for financial assistance. He said a service area to finance part of the project has already been set up the park, which would serve 224 homeowners and approximately 500 children and teenagers in the immediate area.

Duane Mattison, assistant parks and recreation director, reported a special election has been set for May 27 in the Montara-Moss Beach area to create a service area for a similar park.

Bob Winters, representing the Crystal Springs Open Space Committee, told commissioners that property for a county park at Polehemus and Crystal Springs Roads east of San Mateo could be purchased from the Unitarian Fellowship for $60,000 to $70,000.

George Seager, former San Carlos mayor, who is handicapped himself, asked for county help in coordinating a recreation program for the handicapped in San Carlos and in other cities.

Garden Center

Prexy Speaks

To DC Club

Mrs. Harriet Cognetta, president of the San Mateo Garden Center, founder and the first president of Amigas de Las Flores Garden Club, past District Penney Pines chairman, a gardener and connoisseur of herbs, spoke recently to Daly City Garden Club members.

Mrs. Cognetta's subject was Italian herbs, growing, drying and storing, along with her favorite recipes.

Mrs. Cognetta reminded the Daly City Garden Club that for centuries the power of herbs has been recognized but neglected.

She shared her recipe for Pesto, in which 17 herbs are included. Mrs. Cognetta suggested the single leafed parsley for seasoning and curly leaf for decoration.

Hints on the culture of onions and shallots and the art of making herb vinegars were included in the lecture.

Benefit Tour

Members and friends of the Daly City Garden Club toured the Hickory Farms store in Serramonte Shopping Center.

Linda Post was the hostess, distributing prizes for the most unusual purchases, persons celebrating a birthday, and a candy guessing game.

The monies received from the tour will be given to the San Francisco Conservatory of Flowers of Golden Gate Park to help defray the expense incurred through recent vandalism.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY A NEW CAR!

Don't be misled
by higher prices!!

DID YOU KNOW...

- 1 DID YOU KNOW...the value of your trade-in is at a 15-year high?
- 2 DID YOU KNOW...the 1975 models average up to 35% better gas mileage than older models?
- 3 DID YOU KNOW...maintenance costs are lower on 1975 models because of solid state ignition, engine improvements, and sealed bearings?
- 4 DID YOU KNOW...the 1975's are better values? Most are equipped with steel belted radial tires guaranteed for 40,000 miles of trouble free driving.
- 5 DID YOU KNOW...extended credit past 36 months is available through many dealers?

- 6 DID YOU KNOW...the 1975's have cleaner more efficient engines with exhaust cleaning by the new catalytic converter?
- 7 DID YOU KNOW...the costs of parts and labor to refurbish your present car, tires, tune-up, etc., make the 1975 models an even better buy?
- 8 DID YOU KNOW...your area new car dealers are ready to make some of the most attractive offers on 1975 models that you have seen in years?
- 9 DID YOU KNOW...your local new car dealers have the best selection of 1975 models, styles and options to choose from right now on their showroom floors?

FACT:

Back in the "good old days," 1954 for example, the average buyer spent 5.1 months of his income to pay for a standard size car.

Today the same comparable car takes only 4.4 months' pay and the buyer gets a lot more automobile in the bargain.

Inflation has increased the value of your present car. It's worth more in trade than you might think. Get a FREE appraisal from any of the value-conscious local dealers.

How They Voted in Sacramento

How San Mateo County legislators in Sacramento voted on key bills during the week of March 10 through 14:

SENATE
SB 16 (Gregorio) — Repeals mandatory physical education course requirement for students in 11th and 12th grades. Makes P.E. courses for these grades elective. Passed 23-11. To Assembly.

Gregorio and Moscone voted aye.

ASSEMBLY

AB 181 (Berman) — Prohibits discrimination in the granting of credit on the basis of marital status, and further extends laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex in all credit transactions. Passed 79-0. To Senate.

Arnett, Calvo, Papan and McCarthy voted aye.

AB 214 (Keene) — Requires billings for sterilizations performed under Medi-Cal program to be accompanied by proof of informed consent. Passed

Congress Votes

Washington — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll-calls for the week ending March 13.

HOUSE

Emergency Jobs Funds.

By a vote of 313-113, the House passed a bill appropriating $5.9 billion to create 900,000 full-time jobs, and one million part-time jobs for youths and college students. About half of the funds in the bill would create jobs directly through public service employment and summer youth jobs programs. The remaining appropriations would fund accelerated construction of several public works projects and the purchase of more than 120,000 motor vehicles for the federal government.

Supporters of the $5.9 billion jobs program said that the seriousness of the unemployment situation demanded immediate congressional action to both create jobs and stimulate the economy.

Opponents argued that the appropriation would increase the federal deficit and fuel inflation without adequately responding to the job needs of the nation's nearly eight million unemployed.

Office of Management and Budget Director James T. Lynn has recommended that President Ford veto the bill. On this roll call House supporters had 29 more votes than the two-thirds majority that would be necessary to override a presidential veto.

• Voting for $5.9 billion jobs program: McCloskey (R), Ryan (D).

Foreign Aid Funds. The House by a 212-201 vote passed a bill appropriating $3.5 billion for foreign economic and military aid for fiscal 1975 — about $2.4 billion less than requested by the administration. The bill included assistance for Egypt and Israel.

Supporters of the bill argued it was an "austere" program that would fulfill U.S. responsibilities abroad while recognizing U.S. economic problems.

Opponents argued that social and humanitarian programs had been cut too drastically. Others said that the United States could not afford to spend so much overseas and that federal spending should be reduced to improve the U.S. economy.

• Voting for foreign aid: McCloskey, Ryan.

SENATE

Strip Mining. By a 39-56 vote, the Senate refused to ban future strip mining of federal coal deposits on land where the surface is owned by someone other than the government. The ban would have prohibited strip mining on vast areas of the Great Plains, including large areas in Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Supporters of the proposed ban argued that it was necessary to protect western landowners from pressure to allow such mining. Massive surface mining proposed in the West would turn that area into the nation's "utility backyards," they said, producing the coal to run power-generating plants.

Opponents of the ban argued that it would lock away from production billions of tons of coal which the federal government owned — and which should be used to produce energy for use by the American people. They also argued that any change in this part of the strip mining bill — the "thorniest" issue during consideration of the bill in 1973-74 — would jeopardize its passage by the House in 1975.

• Voting to ban strip mining of federal coal deposits: Cranston (D), Tunney (D).

except under certain circumstances. Passed 21-12. To Assembly.

Gregorio and Moscone voted aye.

ASSEMBLY

AB 181 (Berman) — Prohibits discrimination in the granting of credit on the basis of marital status, and further extends laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex in all credit transactions. Passed 79-0. To Senate.

Arnett, Calvo, Papan and McCarthy voted aye.

AB 214 (Keene) — Requires billings for sterilizations performed under Medi-Cal program to be accompanied by proof of informed consent. Passed 73-0. To Senate.

Arnett, Calvo, Papan and McCarthy voted aye.

AB 90 (McAllister) — Changes the maximum amount of a person's earnings subject to wage attachment or garnishment and limits the amount of earnings that may be exempted from execution by reason of hardship. Limits the amount of wages subject to attachment for child support or spousal support payments to one-half of person's earnings. Passed 61-6. To Senate.

Calvo, Papan and McCarthy voted aye; Arnett did not vote.

AB 419 (Brown) — Prohibits the State's Inmate Welfare Fund from being used to pay for services not directly related to the health and welfare of prison inmates such as overtime for staff to attend special events, television repair, athletic and recreational supplies. Passed 57-18. To Senate.

Calvo, Papan and McCarthy voted aye; Arnett voted no.

AB 512 (Montoya) — Revises procedures for residents of a school district to vote on continuing the district's merit system for non-teaching employees. Passed 42-27. To Senate.

Calvo and Papan voted aye; Arnett voted no; McCarthy did not vote.

Mondfrans Takes Seat in San Bruno

Gary Mondfrans was sworn in for a one-year term on the San Bruno City Council Tuesday night to complete the unexpired term of George Corey, who had resigned because he had moved to Millbrae.

Mondfrans, 23, is the city's youngest councilman. He stood rigid and faultlessly repeated each word of the oath of office administered by Deputy City Clerk Lee Bigongiari.

"As this is a happy time, it is the customs to forget all the politics of campaigning and allow the new councilman to crow a bit," said Mayor Tony Govenale.

Mondfrans said, "It's really amazing to be here. I've gotten this seat the hard way. Few victories are easy. But I've never given up." He was elected on his third attempt.

Supporters of the bill argued that it struck a proper balance between the nation's need for coal and the need to preserve the environment from the ravages of coal mining. They pointed out that it did not ban strip mining — the method by which half the nation's coal was produced in 1974 — but simply required that all strip mined land be reclaimed and restored to its original contour and condition.

Opponent of the bill countered that it would preserve the environment at a high cost, by increasing the cost of mining and by raising the price the consumer paid for his electricity and fuel. They also argued that it would prevent strip mining in a variety of areas and curtail domestic coal production.

• Voting for strip mining regulation bill: Cranston, Tunney.

College District Maps Master Plan

By JOHN HORGAN

The San Mateo Community College District has been relatively quiet lately. The storms which buffeted that institution have generally subsided.

The recent overwhelming re-election of all three incumbent trustees who were running in the last election was an indication of how placid things have become in the district.

But all this sweetness and light may be somewhat illusory. There are some potentially troublesome issues on the horizon.

Presently, the district is involved in a concerted effort to formulate a master plan for the future.

One of the key aspects of the deliberations thus far has been the matter of autonomy.

Each of the district's three schools — Skyline College in San Bruno, the College of San Mateo and Canada College in Redwood City — has managed to appropriate to itself a sizable cadre of administrators. Services at each campus are, often, independent of one another. Centralization of many functions could be in the works, with an accompanying diminution of each school's individual authority.

Lending credence to that notion is the fact that the expected new president of the district's board of trustees will probably be San Mateo attorney James Tormey. He has long advocated centralized decision-making as a way to cut costs. Tormey was the top vote-getter in the March 4 election.

Central administration has been a bugaboo of sorts in the district for several years.

In 1971, when the district campaigned to get a tax override passed by the electorate, the board pledged that administration would be trimmed by 15 per cent. Whether it was or not remains to be seen. But, the new chancellor, Glenn Smith, has privately stressed that, if anything, the district's central administration is probably under-administered.

He has not been anxious to make that view public because of that promise the board made four years ago.

In order to help alter the old order, Smith has instituted the master plan study and he has utilized the services of what amounts to a group of administrative surrogates.

The man in charge of the master planning effort is a consultant, Max Tadlock. The district's telephone troubles are being handled by two outside consultants and a special consultant to the chancellor, John Mullen. Mullen is a faculty member from CSM who is presently assigned to Smith's office. A labor relations consultant is also being utilized.

An Analysis

Excluding Mullen, the district is paying a heady sum for the services of its consultants. Tadlock could get as much as $70,000 and the other three have already been paid nearly $13,000 in this fiscal year.

The telephone situation is particularly sticky. The board must depend on outside advice about whether or not to grant a low bid to Litton Business Telephone Systems for a new phone setup at Canada and Skyline.

Litton and the district have been at odds on this matter for more than a year.

It has become so complex that the district's telephone consultant, Clark Slocum, has been forced to bring in another consultant to help him with the specifications of Litton's latest bid and that of the Pacific Telephone Co.

The only full-time, officially-designated administrator which Smith has hired for the district's central office has been Dr. Clifford Denney, the new director of planning.

Smith has not sought to replace the fired business manager, Matteo Fasanaro.

Administration is a sensitive topic today.

Up and down San Mateo County, public school districts are finding themselves facing the administrative question.

In the San Mateo Union High School District, the trustees there have voted to lop off six of 26 central office administrative positions in 1975-76. The Sequoia Union High School District is considering severe administrative cuts as well.

The college district's drift would go against this trend.

And that is something else that Smith is worried about. He does not want his district to give the appearance of affluence at the same time everyone else is hurting.

The college district's enrollments are rising as the others are dropping.

The effects of new state laws have not quite reached California's community colleges — yet.

Realizing this, the district's faculty members have proposed a massive 32-point salary proposal for 1975-76 which, their spokesmen say, would cost the district about $8 million if approved as presented.

Child-care centers are another district problem. Concerned women and their supporters have petitioned the trustees and administration for relief in this matter. A week ago, dozens of women urged the board to resolve to proceed on the issue.

Today at 8 p.m. at the College of San Mateo, the trustees are scheduled to hear a special report from Denny on the feasibility of creating child-care centers at all three campuses.

Nearly a Million Tons Collected Annually

Garbage Problem Debated

By LIN DAY

What's to be done about San Mateo County's garbage?

Right now, there are nearly a million tons a year collected by scavengers, dropped on dumps, or disposed of in other ways, and the figure will go over a million by 1980 at present estimates.

All day Saturday, panels of experts and three score government officials, conservationists, research analysts and concerned citizens mulled the problem at the College of San Mateo.

They discussed burning it, burning it, cooking it, dumping it in canyons, turning it into gas, oil, and recycled metal and glass, and even building delta dikes with it.

They also discussed collecting it, trucking it, processing it, and all of the economics involved in the process.

Major opinions seem to divide on one key issue — whether to go ahead with present scavenger plans to bury it for the next 20 years in deep canyons off Ox Mountain, just north of Highway 82 and between Half Moon Bay and the Skyline, or attempt to turn it into energy and recycled materials.

The session, called by the League of Women Voters and presented by the College of San Mateo Community Services Division as part of its continuing program of getting experts and county problems together, was termed by one participant as the best input session since a county study was set up two years ago.

At that time, San Mateo County Supervisors set about to meet state requirements to develop a coordinated plan for disposal which, by the Resource Recovery Act of 1972 will mean a 25 per cent reduction by 1980.

By Jan. 1, the county proposals must be placed before the State's Solid Waste Management Board. The study are two canyons — Corinda becomes the county plan if adopted by 51 per cent of cities containing a majority of county population.

Meeting and conferring on this study 19 times so far has been a county committee made up of one representative councilman from each city. The committee is to act in June, and elected officials by August.

With time getting short, S. A. Armogida, senior civil engineer of San Mateo County, outlined the study's findings.

There are 24 franchised collection services, operated by six scavenger companies, currently serving 19 cities, four sanitary districts, and one South Coastal Area, Armogida said.

Utilizing four publicly owned landfills operated by two scavenger companies and a special district, they process 350,000 tons a year. Cost is $13,500,000.

Additionally, 217,000 tons of refuse and garbage dumped at five public and two private landfills at an annual cost, excluding transportation, of $3,750,000.

Annual tonnage production, which increases at 2 per cent a year, in 1974 totalled residential, 293,000; commercial, 303,000; special, 81,000; demolition and construction, 148,000; industrial, 104,000; and agricultural, 18,000 — a total of 947,000 tons last year.

By 1980, with increases in all but agriculture, this will rise to an estimated 1,060,000, and by the year 2,000, to 1,486,000 tons.

Landfill operations, such as the San Mateo City Dump, are gradually being closed off, Armogida pointed out. There were 16 in 1962, and there are ten now. By 1977 there will be eight, by 1979, six, by 1983, three, and by 2,000, two.

These two will be the Ox Mountain facilities of the San Mateo County Scavenger Company. Here, covering a site of about 350 acres, there are two canyons — Corinda

Los Trancos, due to open this year and close in 1987, and Apollonio, planned to open in the 1980's and close somewhere between 2,003 and 2,013.

The scavenger firm, which purchased more than 2,000 acres in the Ox Mountain area, a former ranch, about eight years ago, has done extensive preparation, including installation of drainage and various studies, in the Corinda Los Trancos canyon.

"By using canyons, we are trying to get out of Bay fill," Armogida explained. "Our biggest problem is municipal waste." He gave the San Mateo City dump only three or four more years before it would be filled.

Armogida pointed out that San Mateo County, with its canyons, and lack of hazardous refuse, is in a "more fortunate position" most.

"Theoretically," he said, "we should defer big decisions taking heavy capital because today's information on which to base them is insufficient. The potential now exists for an economical and sensible method, and there is a need to reduce landfill and increase recovery."

He pointed out that incineration was not as necessary as the pyrolysis process, which cooks garbage without air to release gas, oil and compost.

Traffic on Route 92, he said, would not be hindered.

Small municipal transfer stations could also be set up to augment the large transfer station near the Ox Mountain site.

He noted that federal funds have been available for such projects as those at Baltimore and San Diego, where power and by-products are gained from the garbage.

Fred Martin, a physicist with the Stanford Linear

Accelerator Center, and Sierra Club member, declared that a billion dollars in useful commodities are discarded annually.

He pointed out that gases are being wasted in burying garbage, and that a Santa Clara study showed that gas obtainable from three pyrolysis plants could supply half the gas needs of the county. The gas that could be recovered in San Mateo County, he said, could run the linear accelerator.

Martin suggested as a "sensible approach to priorities" that residents: make less junk, reuse things directly, reprocess used material, convert other material for use, change refuse to gas for heat and energy, and fill land with the remainder.

"What we are now suffering," he said, "is nature's way of telling us that production and consumption are out of balance." He declared that what was acceptable and desirable, in planning ten years ago, is no longer valid.

SIGNING UP TO WALK

North County youngsters signed up Saturday morning for the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon from South San Francisco to Burlingame and back. At the desk, 1975 campaign director Dave Nigel, San Bruno, is assisted by Marge

(Brooke Photo)

Whetsel, executive director for March of Dimes in the North County. National Guard members and the citizens' band radio group known as REACT were on hand to assist in the march.

Judge Awards Lucero Custody of His Son

A judge has ordered San Mateo County to relinquish custody of an illegitimate child to its Pacifica father or intermediary, or face contempt charges.

The case involves ex-GI Daniel Lucero's nearly three-year court battle to win custody of the child, an offspring of his one-time high school sweetheart.

Lucero, of Pacifica, presently faces charges of burglary in San Mateo County.

Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn was adamant that his order be fulfilled. He noted that the Appellate Court last month upheld his 1973 ruling that custody be given to Lucero. A contempt hearing was rescheduled for March 24. It was not clear precisely who would be held in contempt, although Lucero's attorney, Kenneth G. Haussman, suggested that Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson be put in jail.

The child, Domingo, will be 4 in April. He lives with foster parents who want to adopt him, and who are contemplating filing legal documents seeking custody, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Carolee Hauser.

"I get the impression that the county has used every means to thwart the court's order," Judge Cohn declared. "It's about time that the county abide with the court's order."

After attorneys and the court exchanged comments concerning a possible hearing on Lucero's "fitness," Judge Cohn said that custody must first be given to him before any potential hearings.

Someone in the public welfare department has been playing "Big Brother." I don't like someone patting my head and saying they won't comply with my order."

Lucero, 22, has said his mother, a licensed foster home operator, would help care for the child.

Series of Coast Plan Hearings Scheduled

A series of public hearings to receive comments concerning the preliminary California Coastal Plan have been scheduled at various locations in San Mateo County. Supervisor John M. Ward, the county's representative on the Central Coast Regional Zoning Commission, has announced.

The initial hearing will be today at 8 p.m. in the Board of Supervisors chambers at the Hall of Justice, Redwood City.
